

Character Quest...Perseverance

It takes a condor about a year to learn to fly! When young condors are between six and nine months of age, they begin learning to fly. They endure fall after fall but the young condors persevere. That means they keep on trying. They don't give up. They keep practicing, falling and trying until one day they fly!

The Bible says in Hebrew 10:36 that we need to persevere, too. Persevering means we never give up trying to love and obey God. God understands that we sin and do wrong. God wants us to keep on trying over and over again. When we sin, we need to remember that condor. Ask God to forgive our sin, ask Him to help us to do better next time and keep on trying!

“You need to persevere so that when you have done the will of God, you will receive what he has promised.”

Hebrews 10:36

The Condor's Cool Stats:

In the 1980s there were only 27 California condors left in the wild. These condors were all captured and bred in captivity. There are now about 200 condors. Some of these have not been released back into the wild.

The California condor is the largest flying bird in North America.

Condors watch the actions of other animals to figure out where food is located.

Condors have no vocal cords. They communicate by grunting and hissing.
