

Christmas Joy

---

While we were in the car the other day we were reminiscing about the girls when they were younger. They both went to a Christian Pre-School. This school had a Christmas play every year. One year Seanna was chosen to be Mary- but broke out into tears before the production because she liked Joseph and did not want him to know this. She was switched out and became lead angel.

Emma was listening intently to our conversation and said, "I was always so jealous of Terry in the play, I wonder why I could never be Terry."

"Terry?", I questioned.

"Yes Mom- Baby Jesus Mother."

"Do you mean Mary?"

"Yes- Terry, Mary- you know who I mean."

Seanna then quickly says, "Maybe they did not pick you because you didn't know her name."

How about you- What brings you Christmas joy? What are you doing this Christmas?
